Nameoki to continue annexation challenge

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

NAMEOKI — Township officials continue to challenge Granite City's annexation of the Granite City Steel coke plant. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 3 p.m. Friday at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville before Associate Judge Edward Ferguson. The hearing is on suit continuing the township's challenge.

Supervisor Harry Briggs Sr. will file the suit as an individual on behalf of the township due to a legal technicality, township Attorney Irv Slate Jr. said Wednesday.

A court ruling in May by Judge Moses Harrison of the 5th Appellate Court in Mt. Vernon upheld the city's annexation of the plant, which is also known as the blast furnace division.

The township, Harrison said, wasn't entitled to a permanent injunction against the annexation. Nameoki's six counts contesting the annexation weren't enough to stop it, he said.

The issue was discussed at the board's meeting Monday. Briggs told the board that a man contacted him about trapping and burying beavers that are building dams in Elm Slough. The man would do the work at $25 per animal. The dams prevent Long Lake from draining into Horseshoe Lake when Long Lake overflows.

Trustees have voiced concern that the dams would cause serious drainage problems during a heavy rain.

Streets to close to install cable

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Granite City Steel will soon install a telephone system that will require some city streets to be temporarily closed.

Fiber-optic cables will be placed above city streets, said the steel company's coordinator of legal affairs, Daniel Beatty, in a letter to the City Council.

Though construction was to start July 13, the system will not be installed until after the City Council's meeting July 21. An ordinance to allow construction and street closings will be drafted and presented to the council, said the company's attorney, Leo Konzen of Granite City.

Streets to be temporarily closed include: Madison Avenue, for one hour

- 20th Street, for one hour
- East-bound lane of 20th Street, between Washington Avenue and Nash Street
- 21st Street, for one hour
- West-bound lane on 21st Street between Park Avenue and Illinois 203, partial obstruction for three days.

Snarled

EVERYONE WAITS: As a line of rail cars rolls back and forth, sometimes stopping and sometimes going, at the Granite City Steel facility on Madison Avenue, drivers sit in the hot, early-morning sun Wednesday. Traffic on Madison Avenue stalled for about 15 minutes, and stretched south from the 16th Street tracks to Schermer's Market.

Big bucks for city up for grabs

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — About $1.2 million declined three years ago by the City Council is up for grabs again, and this time the city's taking.

Some aldermen and other city officials want to know how to get Community Development Block Grant Funds directly from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Just ask, is HUD's response.

Madison County gave Granite City about a third of the approximately $1.9 million the city could have gotten during the last three years. Dick Wilson, planning director for HUD, Chicago, said Wednesday that Granite City can drop the county.

"I guess it will be a decision of the City Council of Granite City," Wilson said. "Nobody else would have a say."

Three years ago, the City Council ignored 4th Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak when she urged a break from the county's CDBG program. She wanted the city to directly receive the funds, which meant more money for the city, but her motion wasn't seconded.

"I was like the lone ranger," Perjak said Wednesday.

The three-year agreement between the city and county ends in September and Perjak this time has council support to drop the county.

"I've talked to probably six aldermen and I think they're all for it," she said Wednesday. "It would surprise me now if they would not go for it."

There were two concerns expressed by some aldermen three years ago about leaving the county program: getting HUD support for a plan to house the community's poor might involve blacks; and that if the city took all of its CDBG money, the county could no longer divide that money among other cities.

Because some aldermen feared blacks would live in city-provided housing, Perjak said her motion died in 1984. The aldermen made an issue

Recyclers fined after waste site found

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A recycling company was fined for violating six federal Environmental Protection Agency regulations. St. Louis Lead Recyclers, 1500 State St., was fined $88,750 by the EPA for, in part, not reporting a waste pile when making a permit application.

Also named in the complaint is Galena Industries Ltd. of Dayton, Ohio, which owns the property, and First Granite City National Bank, which holds the property in trust.

Walter Francis of the EPA's Chicago office said ownership and management of the land is unclear.

The inspector visited the site in January in response to Lead Recyclers' application for a permit to store drums and tanks. The inspector found an open ground waste pile in violation of federal regulations, Francis said. The waste pile contained potentially hazardous plastics from old batteries, Francis said.

"It's been our experience that the plastic can be hazardous waste because it contains lead," he said.

The complaint by the EPA involved violations of the Federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, which regulates management of hazardous waste sites. The act states a company must inform EPA of all hazardous waste sites.

"They could have a waste pile but there are regulations that come into play. If you don't tell EPA you have it, how can you regulate it?" Francis said.

The company will be required to close the pile, sample soil and ground water, and remove or decontaminate polluted soil or ground water, Francis said. He said the company will also be required to demonstrate an ability to pay for the pollution study and the clean-up.

St. Louis Lead and others named in the complaint can request a "settlement conference" and a hearing to discuss the fines and the clean-up, Francis said. He said the company has 30 days to provide a written response to EPA's complaints.

St. Louis Lead could not be reached for comment after repeated attempts.

No soil or water samples have been taken at the site, Francis said.

The company "apparently thought the waste pile fell under the jurisdiction of the government's hazardous waste Superfund legislation, Francis said. But he said the waste pile was not associated with the Superfund.

A larger, nearby waste pile containing 225,000 tons of broken batteries and other lead wastes was included as one of 11 Illinois Superfund sites in 1985. That waste pile was managed by National Lead Industries-Taracorp Lead Smelter, Taracorp, which purchased the recycling facility in 1979 from National

Military housing money in House bill

GRANITE CITY — The House passed a measure Wednesday that would add apartments at the St. Louis Regional Support Center.

Included in a military construction appropriations bill was $9.7 million for the apartments. The bill passed earlier in the House-Senate conference committee because money for the housing units is not in Senate legislation, Mansfield said.

Successful in first getting the 100 housing units included in an authorization bill and now an appropriations bill," said Price's administrative assistant, Mike Mansfield, Washington.

Sens. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, and Alan Dixon, D-Belleview, should push the project in the House-Senate conference committee because money for the housing units is not in Senate legislation, Mansfield said.

"Congressman Price has done all this on his own so far. To get this project to the president's desk we need some help from our senators," Mansfield said.

The housing units, to be built on Support Center grounds, are for military personnel stationed in the St. Louis area.

The House bill also includes $4.5 million for a water treatment plant at Scott Air Force Base.

Madison police chief, officers promoted

By Donna Kimbro
Staff writer

MADISON — The police chief and three patrolmen were promoted during the City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Mayor John Bellecoff gave each officer an insignia of elevated rank after the council's unanimous vote.

Police Chief Charlie Bridick received the permanent rank of lieutenant, Detective Sgt. Paul Bargiel advanced to lieutenant, Patrolman Steve Skolia and Patrolman Richard Ballew were promoted to sergeant.

In a prepared statement, Bellecoff praised the department for work in crime solving, which included the arrest last week of a murder suspect.

"I want to commend those involved in solving the murder and armed robbery of Khalid Sawahli, the owner of Charlie's Market, 1647 Market St. on Wednesday, July 8. Their long hours and dedication to duty resulted in the arrest of Ricardo Jose Long, 37, of 721 N. 2nd St., East St. Louis, who was charged with first degree murder and armed robbery on Friday after the incident.

Our thanks goes to Madison Police Department and Chief Bridick, then Sgt. Bargiel, Illinois State Police crime scene technician Al Hank; Larry Lonsbaker, director of Fairview Heights laboratory; Mack Murphy, police examiner at Champaign, Ill.; (Venice Police) Chief Farris Smith and Venice police department; Harvey Haynes and Madison County Sheriff Department; and members of the DCI street gangs unit."

Port officers keep posts

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Tri-City Regional Port District Board of Commissioners was re-elected Monday.

Re-elected to serve during fiscal 1988 were Chairman Mel Wilmmsmeyer, Treasurer Dale Arnette and Secretary Homer Huber.

The commissioners voted to keep Randall Robertson as attorney and Bob Wydra as general manager at the port for the year.

Demolition of house
The board accepted a $3,895 bid from C.D. Peters Construction Co. of Granite City to demolish and remove a house at 3100 Union St. The house is on property the port bought last year, Wydra said.

Kamadzulski Excavating and Grading of Granite City bid $4,400.

Insurance accepted
Approval was given to purchase liability insurance for the board and its officers at a cost of $3,100.

A cloud burst, said by many to be the worst ever in Madison County, did damage estimated to be in the thousands and for a period threatened the entire Tri-Cities with several feet of water. Lightning struck about a dozen city locations as 3.16 inches of rain fell.

Employers listen secretly to workers' phone calls

Most Americans are confident their telephone calls are private. But Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said that is not necessarily so.

Simon has introduced legislation to prevent employers from secretly monitoring workers' and consumers' telephone conversations.

"There are certain basic invasions of privacy that our system of government was designed to prevent," said Simon, who joined Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., at a news conference to push the bill.

"You cannot get a search warrant to invade someone's house just because you want to go in and look around. You should not be able to secretly invade someone's phone conversation, either," he said.

Simon and Edwards, sponsors of a similar bill in the House, participated in the production of a videotape being sent to every member of Congress urging them to support the anti-monitoring legislation. The Communications Workers of America produced the tape.

The bill would require a "beep" tone any time a conversation is being monitored for service quality.

Workers say they are intimidated when they learn their conversations are being monitored. They say it adds stress to their already stressful jobs.

My bill doesn't stop a court from issuing wiretap warrants for legitimate law enforcement activities," said Simon. "We just want to protect the American people from encroachment on their basic liberties."

Rosa Shubert

Named top frog racer

Rosa Shubert of Granite City earned the title of Champion Frog Racer at the Shepherd of the Hills Homestead and Outdoor Theatre near Branson, Mo.

Shubert won her title in the Homestead's unique bullfrog racing competition held at Old Matt's Mill, the setting of Harold Bell Wright's "The Shepherd of the Hills" outdoor historical drama.

A certificate signed by the chief frog trainer was awarded to Shubert. The certificate states that "Even tho' it was a wild race with green slippery legs, floppin' up and down, eyes a bulgin', people a screamin', Rosa used her know-how and get up and go and made it look as easy as fallin' off a log backwards." Shubert was therefore named an official member of the Shepherd of the Hills Frog Racing Team.

The winner was also given the choice of a Shepherd of the Hills Frog Racing Team T-shirt or cap.

SIU's banished cougar invited closer to home

A Southern Illinois University trustee has volunteered space on his Collinsville property to bring the banished Kynia the cougar closer to home.

The unexpected move of the cougar to a Metropolis game farm has provoked outrage among students and area residents. The campus has had a live cougar mascot for years.

But Dean of Students Constance Rockingham remains skeptical of the proposal by trustee Bernard Birger.

"I'm not sure that would be a solution for the students," she said Thursday. "How would that help them?"

Birger has offered to build a pen for the cougar on his property in rural Collinsville. He said he has 100 acres and wouldn't be shy around the big cat.

"I happen to be an animal lover," he said. "I've trained horses and dogs and been around animals a lot."

Rockingham said that because of liability, the cougar would not be able to come on campus.

Kynia was donated to an animal park near Metropolis last month. School officials said concerns about liability and finances led to the decision.

"Since then, students have been trying to persuade the university to reverse its decision and bring Kynia back.

The Cougar Guard — a group of students that has cared for the university's mascots — is circulating petitions and talking to a lawyer. Members held a candlelight vigil last week in the University Center during a Board of Trustees meeting.

Guard member Marilyn Goss said the guard would prefer to have Kynia back on campus.

"We'd like to have her closer," she said. However, she said having her in Collinsville would be an improvement over Metropolis.

Birger said he must investigate liability questions and has requested a report on such issues from the university. He said if materials from Kynia's old cage could not be used for a new cage on his property, he would pay for a new one.

Birger said he would be acting as an individual, not a university trustee.

Rockingham said the cougar now is owned by M/M Exotic. Owners of the animal park have agreed to care for Kynia for the rest of her life.

President Earl Lazerson said liability was "an overriding concern" in the decision to donate the cougar. He said he saw no chance of returning her to campus.

Maryville Road to be closed

The Illinois Department of Transportation advised that Maryville Road will be closed to traffic at the railroad tracks west of Illinois 203 for a period of three days beginning Tuesday, July 21, at 7 a.m. through 3:30 p.m., Thursday, July 23.

The closure is necessary due to the reconstruction of the crossing of the Chicago, Missouri and Western Railway Co. track.

The department requests that motorists be patient and cautious when traveling.

The museum, which was built by Dr. John H. Weir in 1836, is a 10-room, restored, federal-style building with period furnished rooms, displays of Indian and pioneer artifacts, and a history and genealogy reference library.

The museum is open on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sunday afternoons from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Major appliances, such as food freezers, refrigerators and air conditioners manufactured here are available everywhere.

There will be a charge of $8.85 per person on Saturday for a family style meal at the Ox-Yoke Inn. This price includes a typical Amana meal with three meats (chicken, smoked ham and oven-baked steak), potatoes, gravy, vegetable, salad, sauerkraut, cottage cheese, assorted breads from the bakery and butter. The cost includes a guided tour starting at 9 a.m.

The bus will leave the Wilson Park Ice Rink at 7 a.m. on Friday and return between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday. Breakfast will be at the Holiday Inn in Hannibal, Mo., and a short visit will be made in downtown Hannibal to visit the Mark Twain historical area. On the return trip, the group will stop in Muscatine, Iowa with a tour of the island area that houses many markets, including the melons for which that area is famous. Lunch will be a buffet at a local restaurant, after which the group will head for home.

Build Illinois funds used in area

Build Illinois loans and grants made in fiscal 1987 affect the Quad-City Area.

The loans were made through the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) to help fund 1988 economic development projects. Statwide, the program is expected to create or retain more than 15,000 jobs for Illinois workers during the next two years, DCCA Director Jay R. Hedges said Friday.

Hedges said $8 Build Illinois projects are scattered throughout the state, and include a $161,500 infrastructure grant for the Tri-City East District, and Madison anticipates a $266,500 loan at 3 percent interest for the Madison water line to the truck stop.

Madison Mayor John Belloff said Tuesday he hopes the city can do better with DCCA by improving the loan to a grant. He said he is working with state Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, on the project.

"Now entering its third year, the Build Illinois program at DCCA is taking off as we knew it would," said Hedges. "Like any new program, it took time to gear up for Build Illinois and familiarize businesses with it. Now, I am pleased to report Build Illinois more than met our expectations in FY87."

"We funded 12 large business projects worth $12.5 million, 17 infrastructure projects valued at $11.6 million were completed and 59 small business loans totaling $12.6 million were handled."

Hedges said the average cost to the state for each of the 15,167 jobs projected to be created or retained under Build Illinois is $2,420.

"This is an excellent figure. Our per-job target, at the low end, is $3,000," he said. "Clearly, we are stretching our limited Build Illinois funds to cover as many projects as possible and to benefit as many Illinois companies as we can."

Hedges said the program was designed to help firms that may not be able to obtain sufficient conventional financing.

"We are supposed to be taking reasonable risks by making loans that banks would not make in order to create jobs that would not otherwise be created," he said.

"Recent data shows that, through May, only 4.7 percent of all DCCA Build Illinois loans are 90 days or more in arrears, not significantly higher than the 2 or 3 percent rate lending institutions accept as normal in the private sector," said Hedges.

"Considering we are primarily in the business of creating and retaining jobs rather than making money as banks must do, I am proud of our performance," he said.

Someone threw a brick through an office window Sunday afternoon to gain entry.

Taken was the computer system, a Tandy 1000 SX, valued at about $2,000, and a calculator, valued at about $60.

County police

Man allegedly violates order of protection

David Partney, a Granite City school board member, was arrested for allegedly violating an order of protection held by Janet M. Partney, 2273 Shirlene Drive.

Partney was taken to Madison County jail at about 9:54 a.m. July 13 after his estranged wife called a Madison County officer to her home to complain that Partney should not be at the residence.

Partney said he was invited to the house to discuss with the wife for a child during a planned vacation by his wife. He said he refused to take the child while Mrs. Partney planned to be on vacation, and then she called police. Mrs. Partney said she had called Partney to discuss their separate vacation plans, but he refused to talk on the phone and came to the house. She said she called police because he refused to leave the house after the talk.

Radar detector taken

Steve Weller, 22 Sunny Shore Mobile Home Park, said a radar detector, valued at about $150, was taken from his vehicle parked in front of his house July 13.

Madison police

Madison man robbed

Larry Wimberly, 26, of 115 Grenzer Homes, told police at 6:42 a.m. July 11 that two men and a woman walked up to him in the 700 block of Jackson Street and displayed an automatic pistol. They told him to stand still and they took $135 cash from his wallet, removed a silver Citizen watch from his wrist and a ladies gold class ring. The trio left in a car and the victim said he followed them in his car until they fired six shots at him.

Charged on two counts

Tracey L. Hutchinson, 24, of Granite City, was arrested at 2:50 a.m. July 13 in the 1400 block of Fourth Street and was charged with battery and disorderly conduct. She allegedly was involved in a fight with another woman in a rooming house at the restaurant. The complaint was signed by David Thebeau, owner of the restaurant.

Disorder charged

Edward Fleig, 26, of 2537 North St., allegedly became abusive to officers who were trying to calm him down and get him to go home. The incident took place in the 1400 block of Fourth Street and when he allegedly continued using profane language the officers arrested him and charged disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. He paid $154 and was released later the same day and is to appear in court on Aug. 14.

K-9 attack called crime

A bill to put the bite on attackers of police dogs was sent to Gov. James Thompson on June 29.

The legislation would make it a crime, punishable by up to a year in jail, to injure and up to three years in prison to disable or kill a police dog.

Sponsor Rep. Ted Leverenz, D-Maywood, said there have been cases of police dogs being poisoned. He argued the dogs represent thousands of dollars in investment in special training.

The bill was endorsed on an 85-22 vote in the House.

Home burglary

A VCR, valued at under $300 and owned by American Rentals, was reported stolen from the home of Darlene Parner, 1926 rear Edwardsville Road, at 7:54 a.m. July 12, by the owner.

Theft of money

The theft of $25 and a bottle of 40 valium pills was reported by Lisa Lovett at 9:44 p.m. July 9. Lovett said she was at the home of her sister, who resides at 72 Garasche Homes, using the telephone when a man came in and asked her for money. She said she told him to leave and turned her back to continue the telephone conversation and after he left she discovered the theft.

Driver arrested

Leo J. Cook Jr., 23, of 1542 Seventh St., was arrested at 4:09 a.m. July 14, and charged with driving while his license was suspended. He was released at 4:35 a.m. after paying $102.

Matthew 87

These are the words of Jesus in response to a Centurion soldier whose servant was sick with palsy.

There are three things that we should note in this Bible story. First of all, there was a need. Secondly, the Centurion came to Jesus first. And lastly, Jesus said, "I will come."

You can have a need and God is concerned. If the need is real. If it is a great concern to you, if that need must be met, know that God cares.

Will you bring that need to God? Will you pray to the Father? Will you be open and honest before Him? Will you make the first move? His ear is always open.

Then know this: Jesus will come! He will meet your need. He has the answer for your situation. He cares.

Have faith in God. When you pray, believe aloud.

Jesus will come to you.

Today.

Granite City police

Man hurt in incident

Eddie Lee O'Dell, 24, of 4040 Kathy Drive, Pontoon Beach, was charged with reckless driving and battery following an incident in the parking area at the McDonald's Restaurant, 2054 Madison Ave., at 10:35 p.m. July 8.

When police arrived at the scene, a large group of people was standing in the lot and Leland Mathis, 33, of Rural Route 1, Box 88, alleged being struck in the face by O'Dell and then hit by O'Dell's car.

Mathis was in a vehicle behind O'Dell in the drive-thru lane when he accidentally honked the horn, getting an obscene gesture and remarks from O'Dell in response, he said.

The two men got out of their vehicles, words were exchanged and O'Dell allegedly struck Mathis in the face with his fist. A passenger in O'Dell's car also grabbed Mathis' arm and he struck that person trying to break loose, Mathis said.

O'Dell got back in his auto, spun the vehicle around and tried to hit him but missed and struck the building, Mathis alleged.

O'Dell then backed up his car and struck Mathis with the left side of the vehicle, knocking him to the ground, Mathis said. At that point he ran inside the restaurant, Mathis said. He reported pain to his right leg and he suffered a small laceration to the right elbow, reports said.

Damage was reported to the drive-thru window at the restaurant.

O'Dell was charged and held pending further investigation.

Chase ends in capture

Jeffrey Scott Means, 18, 1207 Kirkpatrick Homes, was arrested July 9 on a warrant alleging aggravated assault, and on a charge of resisting arrest.

Police were responding to a report that Means had been shot in the arm with a pellet gun. The person who fired the gun could not be found.

Means allegedly fled on foot when advised he was under arrest, and the warrant. He was pursued and caught while trying to get into an apartment, police reported.

Means pleaded innocent July 10 and bond was set at $10,000. He was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

A 16-year-old youth, apparently objecting to Means' arrest, used profanity toward the officers and refused to back away when told. He was charged with disorderly conduct and was released on notice to appear for a hearing.

Terry Herbert Means, 40, of 1207 Kirkpatrick Homes, the father of Jeffrey Means, allegedly began yelling and using profanity outside an apartment in the 4900 block of the housing complex, wanting the occupants to come outside.

Terry Means was charged with disorderly conduct and was freed on a $500 recognizance bond after a July 10 court appearance.

Money makes for music at SUE

A project to provide better facilities for the music department at SUE heads the list of money requests for fiscal 1989. Submitted July 9 to the SIU Board of Trustees.

The university wants nearly $3.4 million, which would involve remodeling the Communications Building and Lovejoy Library. A third floor would be added, the theater and part of the basement would be remodeled, and part of the first floor of Lovejoy Library would be remodeled to move the Data Processing and Computing Center out of the basement.

The trustees received preliminary requests totaling $66.3 million for SIU, understanding a priority list will be approved in September before the requests go to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The SIUE list included five projects totaling $11.5 million and "Build Illinois" renovation projects totaling $2.3 million for the Edwardsville campus.

The Carbondale campus listed six regular projects for a total of $49 million and two projects totaling $2.7 million at the School of Medicine in Springfield. Also listed were 11 Build Illinois projects — seven at Carbondale totaling $1.7 million, and four at the School of Medicine totaling $694,400. The total capital budget request for SIUE is $54 million.

Other capital projects proposed for SIUE were: regular projects — planning funds for a facility to house the School of Engineering, $1.1 million; equipment funds for the new Art and Design facility, $576,600; high temperature water distribution system renovation, $5.3 million; Lovejoy Library compact shelving system, $1.2 million; Build Illinois projects — Environmental Resources Training Center roof renovation, $165,400; and energy conservation, Environmental Control System replacement and Electrical Distribution System renovation, $63,900.

The SIUC list includes: regular projects — Pulliam Hall remodeling, phase IV, $850,000;

Communications Building remodeling, $1.3 million; Steam Plant addition, $16 million; Biological Sciences building, $17 million; Engineering Annex, $13 million; underground electric, phase III, $1 million; School of Medicine projects — property acquisition, Rutledge Manor, $2.5 million; planning, Wheeler Hall, Carbondale, $126,200; Build Illinois projects — asbestos removal, Morris Library, phase II, $350,000; Wham basement renovation for computing, $250,000; replace PCB transformers, phase II, $300,000; eliminate portable water cross connections, $100,000; Studio Arts rehabilitation, phase III, $350,000; energy management systems, phase V, $185,000; replace Library freight elevators, $117,200; School of Medicine projects, all in the medical instructional facility at Springfield — window wall replacement, $79,500; repair of courtyard paver bricks and front steps, $64,900; vivarium renovation, $280,000; and lighting controls, $150,000.

SIUE prof named in slander suit

The chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is being sued for slander by a former visiting lecturer in the department.

Fernande Gontier filed a lawsuit this week in Madison County Circuit Court in Edwardsville. She seeks more than $15,000 in damages from Julian Bueno.

Reached Friday, Bueno declined to comment on the suit but said Gontier had been a candidate for a job at the university. University spokesman Sam Smith said Gontier was a visiting lecturer in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature in fall quarter 1986.

The suit alleges Bueno led people to believe Gontier was involved in a sexual relationship with a woman. Bueno made the accusation on at least three occasions early this year, according to the suit.

The suit calls the statements false, defamatory and slanderous. It says Gontier's reputation has been damaged, and she has suffered embarrassment and emotional distress.

Bueno came to SIUE last year as department chairman. The manner in which he was hired is the focus of an unfair labor practices charge before the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board.

Bueno was hired with tenure without discussion by the department Tenure Committee or a special committee of the School of Humanities. The labor board has said. Two candidates from within the university were passed up for the job, and Bueno was given a five-year contract with a salary higher than that of his predecessor, the board said.

The charge was filed by the Illinois Education Association, a labor union.

Surrogate parents sought

Volunteers are needed to serve as surrogate parents for handicapped children who have no natural or adoptive parents to act on their educational behalf.

These persons will represent the child's interest in all educational matters regarding evaluation and placement in special education programs. Some of the activities they will perform include talking with teachers, meeting the student and observing the student in the classroom.

The Illinois State Board of Education will provide training to inform volunteers of their rights and responsibilities. Surrogate parents will receive $50 per semester per student to cover transportation or other incidental expenses incurred. They will also be reimbursed for expenses related to completing the required training.

For more information contact Hester Allen, surrogate parent coordinator, Regional Superintendent of Schools Office, 112 N. Gum, Harrisburg, Ill. 62946, (618) 253-5581.

The father of minor children may fall behind in his child support payments for a variety of reasons. In some cases, the father may be laid off from his job or he may be ill and unable to work. In other situations, he may make a voluntary decision to stop paying child support even though he could afford to pay. The question often arises in these cases as to whether the father should be held in contempt of court.

Generally speaking, the parent who is ordered to pay support will be held in contempt of court only where there was a "willful and contumacious refusal" to obey a court order. In other words, the paying spouse must willfully disobey the court order in order to be held in contempt. The father must have to show that he had a valid excuse for his failure to pay.

The spouse who fails to pay can avoid being held in contempt if his failure to obey the order was due to poverty, insolvency or other misfortune. However, the defense of poverty and misfortune will be viewed as a most extreme cases. If the paying spouse has no money and no way of getting money to meet his support obligations, he will generally not be held in contempt of court.

In one recent case, a father was ordered to pay $35 per week per child in child support payments. Over a three-year period, he only made one $70 payment. He was eventually found in contempt of court and sentenced to six months in jail. However, he was allowed to clear himself of the contempt charge by paying $12,950 in arrearages.

The father took this case on appeal and argued that he should not be held in contempt since he had been virtually destitute and penniless during the years in question. He claimed that he had not made enough money from 1984 through 1986 to even be able to file income tax returns. The Appellate Court noted that the father was able to file income tax returns. The Appellate Court noted that the father was able to file income tax returns. The Appellate Court noted that the father was able to file income tax returns. ## 30-year reunion of GC graduates

The June 1957 graduates of Granite City High School held its 30-year reunion at St. Gregory's Hall in Granite City. Approximately 120 attended.

Decorations in the school colors of red and black were used in the hall, as well as with the tablecloths and placemats. Centerpieces and helium balloons completed the decor provided by Edward Ely, a class member.

Following an hour of renewing old friendships, dinner was served by Jerry's Catering.

Pat Early served as master of ceremonies and welcomed everyone and accorded appreciation to the committee that organized the affair.

He then presented the class a reproduction of the composite class picture, the original of which hung in the upper hallway of Granite City High School before the fire which swept the auditorium in 1970. The original picture was destroyed at that time. The reproduction was paid for by donations from class members and will be presented to the Granite City Board of Education at a future meeting to be rehanging in the high school hallway.

Early then read the list of deceased class members and they were honored with a moment of silence. They included, Jeanne Auchenbach, Judy

Piano prof retires from school

For pianist Ruth Slenczynska of SIUE, retirement will be a stepped-up schedule of practicing, traveling and performing.

"It's kind of a milestone in my life," says Slenczynska, 63. "I had to make some sort of decision."

Slenczynska, a distinguished artist-teacher at SIUE, refers to her retirement as "dividing my time in another way."

She will continue to teach a handful of students at SIUE and give private lessons and workshops. But after 23 years at the university, she wants to devote more time to concertizing.

She and her husband, political science professor James R. Kerr, both will retire from SIUE in August.

The couple will vacation in Europe this fall. Then Slenczynska will begin practicing in earnest for a busy international concert tour next year.

Kerr will accompany her on the tour and on future tours. She already has bookings in Singapore, Malaysia and China.

As plans now stand, she'll start the tour in Taiwan in March. In June, she'll be artist-in-residence at the University of Hong Kong.

"I'm working on India for February," she says. "If things calm down in Korea, I have things planned for there in April."

Slenczynska, a native of Sacramento, Calif., is no stranger to performing. She gave her first public recital at age 4 and substituted for Sergei Rachmaninoff in a concert at age 9.

"I got all excited with colored paper," she recalled. "It was the first time I had ever come back to anything."

Before, she would return to an empty apartment, rest for two weeks and then begin practicing for the next tour, she says.

Slenczynska is the author of two books. Music at My Fingertips is a book of advice on how to play the piano. Forbidden Childhood is an account of her trying years as a child prodigy.

Slenczynska was forced to practice eight or nine hours a day as a child by her father, a violinist. "When I see the programs that I played, I can't believe that someone that young could do it," she said.

Today, many are amazed that someone as small as Slenczynska can produce the powerful sounds she does. Weighing 90 pounds and standing just 4 feet 10 inches tall, she depends on agile and nearly infallible fingerings.

"I have learned how to use my hands in special ways," she says. "I know how to balance things."

She has made no plans to retire from concertizing. "I mean new people, make new friends. It's always an adventure."

Slenczynska was delighted to

Computers help disabled

By Tommye Walter
SIUE

Sometimes it takes a simple modification to make computers more accessible to people with motor dexterity impairments and sight problems.

"A student may merely need the keyboard raised," said Sue Matthews, adviser in the Office of Academic Services at SIUE.

Making it possible for others to operate a computer may require the use of special key-boards or magnified screens. One of the instructors at an SIUE summer workshop geared to make computers more accessible to disabled students, Matthews said much has been written about the promise of computers as a great equalizer for the disabled in the job market.

"Computers don't know who is providing the input and therefore are not capable of discriminating against them," she said.

Teaching the course along with the SIUE adviser was Keith Sofka, a consultant from the disabled student services office at Goodwill Industries.

Matthews said computers are being used more and more in a variety of fields, from accounting to zoology.

"Disabled students need access to them if they are going to effectively compete in their chosen professions," she said. "To some, the ability to use a computer may be the difference in being able to work at all."

Devices employed to allow students to use standard hardware and software include: specially constructed key guards for students with manual dexterity impairments, vocalizing screen input/output for students with visual problems, large print display for the partially sighted, and separate keyboards that increase, decrease or relocate the standard keyboards.

Approximately 15 students, many in wheelchairs, participated in the workshop. Excited about the prospect of being able to operate a computer, the students gave several reasons for enrolling in the workshop.

"Right now I have to rely on others," one student said. "I can type my own papers, but it's a slow and tedious process. With a word processor, I will be able to speed up the process."

"I want to write a book. It will be simpler and easier with a word processor."

"To do my own papers," another student said. "However, one student, looking somewhat farther into the not-too-distant future, said, 'To get a job!'"

Program given by Marshall School students

GRANITE CITY Idea Lab students at Marshall Elementary School recently presented a final program of the school year for their parents and Marshall Principal Goni Michels.

Master of ceremonies for the event was Sean Asbeck.

Mandy Morlen and Dennis Heath showed a video tape of their state fish election that the students conducted.

Ann Boring described the Polish Christmas customs unit. Part of the unit was a Polish puppet theater the children constructed to present a play to other classes at Christmas.

Christy Cahill and Leighann Klug demonstrated a word processing program that they used to write their Young Author stories and Science Fair reports.

Nickolas Downs and Matthew Vollmar demonstrated the finger-print unit they studied.

Craig Rudy and Sean Asbeck discussed the unit on probability they studied.

Each student also explained their science projects that were displayed at the elementary Science Fair.

Local woman wins state scholarship

Secretary of State Jim Edgar on July 7 announced the recipients of the 1987-1988 Illinois State Library Scholarships at a reception for them in his Springfield office.

Eleven $7,500 scholarships were awarded for full-time graduate study for a master of library science degree at an American Library Association accredited graduate library school in Illinois. Among the winners is a Granite City resident.

The library scholarship program is being offered by the secretary of state to encourage talented and motivated students to pursue advanced degrees in library science. Edgar said federal discretionary funds were channeled to the scholarship program because of a growing shortage of professional librarians in Illinois, especially in the area of children's librarianship.

The program was reinstated in the state library after a seven-year absence.

"We hope this scholarship program will serve as an incentive to attract other dedicated and qualified people to this important profession," Edgar said. "My office is committed to providing quality library service to the citizens of Illinois and this program reflects that commitment. Awarding scholarships to individuals is a recruitment measure to further ensure that Illinois libraries are distinguished by quality, professionalism and dedication."

Receiving the scholarship were: Athena Anderson, Granite City; Donna Antoniuk, Schiller Park; Iola Buggs, Chicago; Nena Burbank, Eureka; Laura Frickel, Chicago; Leann Johnson, Goodfield; Kristy Kiser, Chicago; Eva Luckinbill, Oswego; Elena Rosenfeld, Rockford.

Sharon Ruda, Wilmington; Karen Stott, Savanna. The recipients will each attend one of Illinois' four accredited library schools at the University of Illinois, Northern Illinois University, University of Chicago and Rosary College.

"I personally congratulate each scholarship recipient and wish them success in their studies and future careers," Edgar said. "The Illinois State Library is pleased to assist in the education of those who share our high goals for libraries throughout Illinois."

The awards are based on a merit selection process comprising scholastic record, professional potential and an assessment of commitment to the program. All scholarship recipients will be required to work two years in an Illinois public library upon graduation.

Host families are sought

The International Office at Washington University is seeking 60 families to participate in the Host Family Program for the 1987-88 academic year.

The Host Family Program is designed to promote cultural exchange between Washington University's international students and American families.

Host families do not provide living accommodations for international students, but do invite the students to their homes throughout the year.

The host families help students become oriented to the community and advise them on tasks such as getting around the St. Louis area, relating to American cooking, making purchases and preparing for winter.

During the 1986-87 academic year, 721 foreign students from 72 countries attended Washington U. Of these, 518 were enrolled in graduate programs and 564 were males. Washington's largest numbers of international students were from the Orient and Southeast Asia, according to Jill Hill, coordinator for the program at (314) 938-5810.

Senate OKs teaching children to say 'no'

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Senate said yes June 24 to teaching Illinois school children to say no to premarital sex.

On a 54-2 vote, the Senate sent to the governor legislation adding the teaching of "sexual abstinence until marriage" to the subjects that must be covered by public schools in health courses in elementary and high schools.

The bill was part of the legislative agenda this spring of Eagle Forum, a "pro-family" organization headed by conservative activist Phyllis Schlafly.

One health problem that no one wants to talk about

A 45-year-old woman has had bladder control problems for years. Rather than see a doctor, she just endures with adult "diapers."

A 75-year-old man, although concerned by his incontinence, dismisses it as another one of the unfortunate consequences of getting old.

For these people, having a voiding dysfunction is a fact of life rather than a medical condition which is curable in about one of every three.

Through treatment with drugs, innovative surgical procedures, intermittent catheterization, or by solving underlying medical problems, this embarrassing and incapacitating problem can be successfully treated, says Robert Lepor, M.D., chief of urology at Jewish Hospital at Washington University Medical Center, St. Louis.

While incontinence affects less than one out of 100 people in the 45-65 age group, the number soars to at least 10 out of 100 after age 65.

Women are more often afflicted, and estimates for the frequency of incontinence among those in long-term care facilities range from 38 to 76 percent.

"In otherwise healthy people, incontinence is a difficult problem for which to seek attention," says Lepor. "Still, it's a major problem and getting bigger because of the growth in the older population."

"Because of the magnitude of this health care problem, and because it's an area requiring special expertise, Jewish Hospital and its private medical staff have begun a clinical program designed for the diagnosis and treatment of urinary incontinence," he says.

The continence program was created to assist in the diagnosis of incontinence problems and in the management of incontinence through training in the proper use of catheters and special exercises.

Taught by Mary Ann Jacobs, R.N., the educational program also enables patients to monitor the effectiveness of bladder control through biofeedback and other instrumentation.

Jewish Hospital attending urologists also participate in the diagnosis and treatment of incontinent patients referred to the program. They include Herbert Sunshine, M.D., Saul Klein, M.D., Neal Neuman, M.D., and Thomas Lyman, M.D.

"When we examine people with incontinence problems, we find that there are basically four different types of incontinence," says Dr. Lepor.

"While some are related to structural or underlying neurological disorders, others are caused by the bladder's inability to empty completely, inadequate support of the bladder neck, or impaired function of the urinary sphincter."

"When the bladder neck is inadequately supported, urine may leak upon coughing, laughing, sneezing or lifting. While exercises may help to correct this type of incontinence, surgery and other types may require more sophisticated approaches for treatment."

When an incontinence problem is not related to a known illness, a more complex examination of the bladder's function may be required at the Urodynamic Laboratory at Jewish Hospital.

Waste

Lead, agreed to pay for a $500,000 pollution study of the site and National Lead agreed to come up with an approved clean-up plan.

National Lead also owned the St. Louis Lead property in the past, though it is not known if the St. Louis Lead waste pile was created by National Lead.

The company feels National Lead is responsible," Francis said.

The clean-up of the Taracorp site is still in the planning stage, said Bruce Carlson, of the Illinois EPA's enforcement division in Springfield.

The fine is actually a total of six fines resulting from the company's failure to inform the USEPA of the waste pile.

A waste pile is not considered a landfill, which operates under different regulations, Francis said. He said it would be to the company's benefit not to turn the waste pile into a landfill, which is maintained over a long period at a greater cost.

Their benefit is to clean it up now," Francis said.

CDBG

City seeks money it once ignored

It's not necessarily minorities, it's low income, and God knows Granite City has low income," Perjak said.

Kirkpatrick Homes has an 85 percent occupancy rate and would use HUD money to solve some of the problems there, Mayor Von Dee Cruse said Wednesday.

"We've got a lot of people qualified to move out there, but they won't because of the trash that's out there," Cruse said. "We've got a lot of trash out there. There are a lot of good poor people that need to be served."

Granite City officials are less concerned this week about the effect of leaving the county's CDBG program than they were three years ago. In 1984, officials said leaving the program and taking all of the city's money would hurt other communities, which would have less of Granite City's money to share.

"We're really concerned with Granite City first and the county second," Perjak said.

"I'm sure we can find places to use any federal money we can get," Cruse said.

The city of Pekin directly receives its CDBG money, said city Comptroller Joe Miklovic. He called Pekin to determine what problems the city has with the program.

Rites conducted for Essie Buckingham

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Second Baptist Church, 2101 Illinois Ave. for Essie E. (Mayberry) Buckingham, 66, of 2810 Denver St.

She died at 3:38 a.m. July 13, 1987, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was a patient for 2½ months. Mrs. Buckingham lived in this area for 46 years.

She and her husband, Lloyd Buckingham, who survives, were married in 1940 in Wichita, Kan.

Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Dale (Dean) Burcham Sr., New Douglas, Ill., and Mrs. Michael (Jean) Jones, Granite City; two brothers, Curtis Mayberry, Anna, Ill., and Powell Mayberry, Madora, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Harley (Virginia) McKee, Wichita, Mrs. Fritz (Shirley) Nain of Barlow, Ky., and Mrs. Thula Kerr of Pulaski; and four grandchildren.

Burial was in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville. Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, was in charge of arrangements.

HUD issues report

The Department of Housing and Urban Development on July 8 released the first report from the Housing Voucher Demonstration project, which is the nation's largest local and state public housing agencies.

HUD Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr. said: "These findings show that the administration's voucher approach, which was designed to improve the delivery of tenant-based subsidies and to replace the expensive new construction programs of the past, is working well, and is giving low-income families a broad range of choices for their housing."

The housing voucher, the key element in the administration's housing policy, gives low-income families more choice of housing than was available in previous federal programs, and enables them to escape the poverty of living in projects isolated from the community at large.

Housing assistance that allows people to shop for their own apartments or houses among existing rental units is actually working better now than the long-antecedent subsidies in the late 1970s, according to these research findings. Previously, almost two-thirds of the families eligible to receive assistance found rental units meeting HUD housing quality standards; now almost two-thirds of the families have success.

Unlike Section 8 certificates, housing vouchers let families, rather than the government, decide where they want to live and how much income to spend on housing. While families may choose to spend more than the Fair Market Rent, the Housing Voucher Program also lets the family pay less than the Fair Market Rent to keep part of the subsidy for other needs. It also allows a family to exercise that choice by moving beyond the geographic boundaries of the housing authority.

They advised me they didn't have a whole lot," Miklovic said, echoing the same claim made three years ago by a Pekin official.

CDBG money can be used by the city to house the poor, to provide public works in low-income areas, to create and retain jobs, and for such services as administering the program, day care centers for the poor and housing counseling, Wilson said.

In September, Wilson said, the county can react three ways to the CDBG agreement: continue in the county's program; withdraw from the program, which would require the city to administer the program; or stay with the county program, but require the county to give Granite City the entire amount to which the city is entitled.

Cruse said the latter alternative is attractive. Without Granite City, and with the possibility that Alton could also leave the program, Madison County's population would be counted at too low a level to continue to administer the CDBG program. Cruse said he wants to avoid causing difficulties for other communities.

Alton Mayor Bert Wudner said Wednesday he hasn't reached a decision about leaving the county's CDBG program, but it's a possibility.

Repeated efforts to reach Joe Parvich at home and work on Wednesday were unsuccessful. Parvich administers the county's CDBG program.

people to shop for their own apartments or houses among existing rental units is actually working better now than the long-antecedent subsidies in the late 1970s, according to these research findings. Previously, almost two-thirds of the families eligible to receive assistance found rental units meeting HUD housing quality standards; now almost two-thirds of the families have success.

Unlike Section 8 certificates, housing vouchers let families, rather than the government, decide where they want to live and how much income to spend on housing. While families may choose to spend more than the Fair Market Rent, the Housing Voucher Program also lets the family pay less than the Fair Market Rent to keep part of the subsidy for other needs. It also allows a family to exercise that choice by moving beyond the geographic boundaries of the housing authority.

They advised me they didn't have a whole lot," Miklovic said, echoing the same claim made three years ago by a Pekin official.

CDBG money can be used by the city to house the poor, to provide public works in low-income areas, to create and retain jobs, and for such services as administering the program, day care centers for the poor and housing counseling, Wilson said.

In September, Wilson said, the county can react three ways to the CDBG agreement: continue in the county's program; withdraw from the program, which would require the city to administer the program; or stay with the county program, but require the county to give Granite City the entire amount to which the city is entitled.

Cruse said the latter alternative is attractive. Without Granite City, and with the possibility that Alton could also leave the program, Madison County's population would be counted at too low a level to continue to administer the CDBG program. Cruse said he wants to avoid causing difficulties for other communities.

Alton Mayor Bert Wudner said Wednesday he hasn't reached a decision about leaving the county's CDBG program, but it's a possibility.

Repeated efforts to reach Joe Parvich at home and work on Wednesday were unsuccessful. Parvich administers the county's CDBG program.

There are between 75 and 100 beavers in the slough, Trustee Norm Hall said Tuesday. It could cost up to $2,500 to take the man's offer, he said.

The board decided to wait until beaver season in November when trappers will be allowed to hunt them, Hall said. They also decided to contact the Illinois Department of Conservation to see what alternatives the township has in dealing with the beavers, he said.

Township employees destroyed some of the dams Tuesday.

Tax matters Township Collector Steve Isenburgh said township tax bills will be mailed Aug. 7. The first payment will be due Sept. 14, he said. Money won't be distributed to taxing bodies until about Oct. 15, Hall said.

The trustees passed two tax anticipations warrants totaling $40,000 for the road and bridge, and the special hard road funds. The warrants will allow the township to borrow money against anticipated tax revenues.

Another resolution was passed for township road district employees to install a 12-inch storm sewer on Illinois 111 for drainage.

Raymond E. Burris and Raymond S. Sexton were hired as new patrolmen with the police department at the June council meeting. Their appointments increased the department to eight police officers plus the township's 1985 graduate of the academy in Champaign.

New committee studies county health setup

An organizational meeting of the special committee, named by the Madison County Board to study the possibility of establishing a county public health department was held at the Madison County Courthouse on July 1.

Co-chaired by county board members Harold Ryers of Highland, Robert Stille of Edwardsville, and Vasil Kiti-moff of Granite City, the special committee also includes nine "citizen" members. Most of them have varied expertise in public health matters.

The committee will make a formal report to the County Board by Sept. 1.

Members agreed to schedule several immediate meetings. They plan to invite John Pitzer, regional health officer for the Illinois Department of Public Health, representatives of existing non-profit health care providers in Madison County, Paul Hawkins of the county's environmental protection department and interested members of the public.

Pitzer last fall met with some of the County Board members. He favored the establishment of a county health department to handle public health needs which, he said, are handled on a piecemeal basis.

At that time, Pitzer said a health department in Madison County could be established with funds presently levied for the tuberculosis clinic (which would then fall under the county department), an estimated $270,000, or, as an alternative, levy a new tax for the service.

To qualify for additional grants of about $340,000, Pitzer said the health department would have to be established first. He estimated that a budget for a full-fledged department would exceed $1 million.

At the meeting, members said that many county residents don't know where to go for assistance when a public health problem arises and that existing non-profit services are not uniform in the county.

Some communities have no city health services and police chiefs are acting city health officers in most cases. Spotty service in the area of inspection of food-serving establishments exists, one member said.

The member noted that though Madison County has 1,400 food-servers (including schools), there are two inspectors in the county. The result is that inspections are usually conducted on the basis of registered complaints.

Other health needs which were described as failing to cover the entire county included visiting nurse service, maternal and child health needs, and control of contagious and chronic diseases. Madison County is the fifth highest county in Illinois in terms of AIDS victims, the committee was told.

Members agreed input should be sought from the county's hospital administrators, and SUE health planning staff

McPike happy at Springfield

Jim McPike, Alton Democrat, once represented Granite City and environs in the Illinois legislature. He's still there, and happy to be, but the district was divided when the House of Representatives was reorganized.

Sen. Sam Vadalabene still serves the entire territory, with McPike representing the northern half and Rep. Sam Wolf serving the southern half.

Regional Roundup
By Bill Wintor

McPike still represents this community, in a sense, because he has statewide responsibilities as House majority leader. He enjoys his duties in Springfield, and most people believe him when he says he isn't interested in running for Congress.

McPike is loyal to Speaker of the House Mike Madigan. It is believed possible that McPike could advance to the speaker's job if and when Madigan moves up to some other position. Or, McPike himself might seek a state legislative office.

Dennis McMurray, Alton Telegraph correspondent in Springfield, wrote July 2 that "it looked almost like the Congressional conference hearing but sounded more like Let's Make a Deal as an Illinois House-Senate budget conference committee convened on the afternoon of July 1 to finally bring this year's Illinois General Assembly session to an end."

"The second conference committee to resolve disputes over appropriations was in a dramatically different setting than the first one."

"On June 29, the 10 legislators who negotiated the major agency budgets had huddled for 14 hours in a small, difficult to locate conference room behind the Senate chamber. The 10 were McPike, Sen. Richard Luft, D-Pekin, assistant Senate majority leader, and the chairmen and majority spokesmen of the four legislative appropriations committees."

"On July 1, after a dispute erupted the previous night between the two chambers, sending the legislature into an extra day of special session, the conferees met in a large, first-floor committee room jammed with spectators and eight television cameras aimed at them."

"We'll take (Gen.) Second first and (Col.) North second," one panelist joked, referring to the hearings televised from Washington.

"McPike chaired the session and became an instant statewide TV star."

"Cameras whirled as McPike began by denouncing Gov. James Thompson for calling the legislature into special session (the regular session ended June 30) 'at a cost of $10,000 a day.'"

He criticized Thompson for declining Speaker Madigan's invitation to join the session.

"On McPike's left at the head of the conference table, a chair was kept empty. A sign was placed in front of it, giving the governor's name."

The closing days of an Assembly session put massive pressure on the participants. Pending bills create a high stack on legislators' desks, making it difficult for them to know how to vote.

The bills often are too long to read in their entirety as the adjournment hour nears. Some sponsors wind up voting against their own proposals when they discover the extent to which they have been altered by amendments.

In this kind of atmosphere, humor sometimes is used to ease the tension.

A bill to make it a crime to injure or kill canine crusaders against crime "turned McPike into a stand-up comedian who got a standing ovation on the floor of the Illinois House" after the afternoon of June 22, McMurray wrote June 29.

The normally serious majority leader only rarely engages in humor in House debate, but his poking fun at the K9 Corps bill brought howls of laughter, the correspondent said.

The legislation proposed "a year's jail term for injuring a police dog, and a three-year, prison term for causing death or disabling a four-legged helper."

McPike said, "This morning, when I left my apartment, I walked out to my car and there were nine or 10 dogs waiting to bark to me. None were police dogs. Most were junkyard dogs."

"They said, 'Nobody cares about us. They go out to the junkyard and shoot at us. Now you've got a bill in the House for police dogs.'"

"I've got 100 telegrams from police dogs in Illinois," McPike continued. "They're for this bill." He then gave a long scenario of what could happen if the bill became law and a motorist accidentally struck a pedestrian and a police dog.

"It's not all fun and games at the State Capitol."

It was announced July 1 that letters have been sent to all providers of health care for public aid patients.

Payments from the Illinois Department of Public Aid to the health care providers have been halted for at least 60 days due to lack of funds, and an even longer cutoff was predicted for next year.

CUB re-elects Hollmann No. 2

The Citizens Utility Board (CUB) has re-elected Ray Hollmann, a businessman and educator from Fairview Heights, as vice president of its board of directors.

Meeting in Chicago, the consumer advocacy group also chose Joseph Wawryk, a political activist from Chicago, as president; Arthur Bruce Mark-waller of Sheridan, a teacher at Illinois Valley Community College, as treasurer; and Theresa Marzullo, a legal secretary from Chicago, as secretary.

The board sets the policy and direction of the organization, and directors represent CUB at speaking engagements and public events. Directors work for CUB on a voluntary basis.

One board member is elected by dues-paying CUB members in each of Illinois' 22 Congressional districts. Hollmann represents the 21st District.

"CUB's strength comes from its members," he said. "As I continue as vice president, I hope to work with consumers from across the state to build the membership."

CUB was formed in 1983 to represent consumers in the utility rate-making process before the Illinois Commerce Commission, in the courts and legislature.

It has lost its privilege of inserting literature in utility bills, but legislation this spring would enable it to place inserts in secretary of state and other mailings.

Industry applauds defeat of plant bill

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association is calling the defeat of the Plant Closing Notification/Consultation Bill "the biggest victory" for industry during the ending spring session of the Illinois General Assembly.

Twenty-seven Republican and three Democratic senators defeated the measure that would have required state employers of 100 or more to give 90-day notification of closings or layoffs and consult with employees or their representatives.

The IMA also takes partial credit for the early defeat of bills that would have allowed: parental leave of 18 weeks; a computer software tax; regulation of on-site disposal in floodplains; and comparable worth-pay equity.

Employers to be liable for past agreements

The Illinois General Assembly has approved a bill that states that if collective bargaining agreements contain a successor clause the agreement is binding upon any successor employer. Many manufacturers are asking Gov. James R. Thompson to veto the bill.

Crime prevention tips needed for summer

Almost all types of personal and household crime reach a peak with the warm temperatures of summer, but vacationers can protect themselves, states a spokesman for the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority.

Before leaving on a vacation, the authority advises you to: stop mail and newspaper delivery or have a friend collect them daily; store valuables in a safe deposit box; leave a key and a list of numbers where you can be reached with a friend; double-check to make sure all doors and windows are locked; and call your local police department for a vacation survey form to check your house during your absence.

For additional vacation safety information, write to McGruff, the "spokesdog" of the National Crime Prevention Council, at 120 S. Riverside Plaza, Chicago, IL 60606-3997, or call toll-free 1-800-MCGRUFF.

'First Birthday' bill for health care OK'd

The Illinois House and Senate have approved a bill establishing a First Birthday Rule for coordination of health-care benefits.

The rule allows payment of benefits for dependents to be determined by the earliest birth date, by month and day, of the working parents. After the first plan pays, benefits are to be coordinated with the other plan. The bill will become effective 180 days after the Gov. James R. Thompson signs it into law.

Work comp reviewed

The governor's summit on the Workers' Compensation Act ended with an agreement by both business and labor to study the current act and the administration of the Illinois Industrial Commission. A report is expected by January.

In addition to a thorough review of current statutes, the conferees agreed to a moratorium on the pursuit of any significant legislative changes while the study is under way. The agreement followed several weeks of discussions attended by about two dozen representatives of business, labor, the legislative leadership and the administration.

Thompson for Bork, gives president praise for choice

Gov. James R. Thompson on July 1 praised President Reagan for nominating Judge Robert H. Bork, U.S. Court of Appeals, to fill the seat of retiring Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. on the U.S. Supreme Court.

"The president has made an excellent nomination in Judge Bork for the Supreme Court," Thompson said. "I have known him (Bork) for more than 14 years and he has been an outstanding jurist and a respected legal scholar and practitioner — a man whose judicial philosophy is consistent with that of the president and a man of honor whose open mind and outstanding career clearly make him a standout candidate."

"I believe that Judge Bork will be found by the Senate Judiciary Committee to be an outstanding selection," for the nation's highest court.

However, others, including U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, question whether Bork is open minded. By some, Bork is viewed as a member of the far right who would push back racial and other reforms that have occurred during the past 30 years.

Vet program in 10th year

The Geriatric Research, Education and Clinical Center (GRECC) in the St. Louis Veterans Administration Medical Center is celebrating its 10-year anniversary of research, education and clinical service in gerontology and geriatrics.

There are 10 GRECCs in the country, all designed to promote the study of aging processes and care for elderly persons. The local GRECC is staffed by faculty from St. Louis University Medical Center, Bernard B. Davis, M.D., is the director.

GRECCs are mandated by Congress to provide leadership in research, education and clinical care. The St. Louis GRECC research program includes clinical research on sleep disorders in the elderly, rehabilitation of patients with cardiopulmonary diseases, health services research on utilization of VA and community health resources and predicting nutritionally-related disorders in the elderly.

GRECC investigators also conduct basic research on calcium and Vitamin D metabolism, bladder cancer, alcoholism and molecular biology of the central nervous system. In 1987, 11 research proposals from GRECC staff were approved and funded. Among them is a three-year Geriatric Leadership Academic Award from the National Institute of Aging.

The GRECC education program provides training for medical residents and students from St. Louis University School of Medicine and for students in allied health professions. GRECC staff also participate in continuing education programs for VA staff and community health providers nationwide. For the past six years, the GRECC has conducted a national symposium on aging for researchers and clinicians.

Clinical care activities include development of a geriatric assessment unit to provide the best treatment of patients and most appropriate placement in the integrated system.

Davis said, "GRECC programs were formed to seek new knowledge on the aging process, to clinically apply that knowledge within the VA Medical Center environment, and to pass on the knowledge to patients, health care providers and students. In recent years, we've clearly seen how the knowledge gained in GRECC has influenced the broad picture of health care for the elderly."

The GRECC program has been instrumental in increasing the quality of care for veterans and decreasing the average length of stay and subsequent costs of care.

As the St. Louis GRECC begins its second decade, it anticipates continued breakthroughs in knowledge of aging and clinical applications, according to the VA.

City once ignored money, shouldn't repeat mistake

Three years ago the City Council ignored $733,000 and the money went away; sewer and other problems didn't.

No alderman supported 4th Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak's motion to take the money. The council made a mistake.

Unlike the aldermen who didn't side with her, Perjak today doesn't owe the public an excuse concerning the city's sewer problems; police need not look to her to learn why they don't have new cars; firefighters can't demand excuses from her concerning why they won't get another pumper.

In September 1984, Perjak urged the council to take all of the Community Development Block Grant money to which the city was entitled. The council snored. It let the county continue to have the money to pass out as the county saw fit. Granite City received at least $1.5 million less from the county in the last three years than the city could have gotten by directly receiving all the money.

To receive all the money, the city wouldn't have to do much. It would be required to provide a housing assistance plan to the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Since the city already provides public housing, the plan isn't a great challenge. We wouldn't be starting from scratch.

An official in Pekin, an Illinois city already receiving the funds, finds the program easy to administer and operate. "I would say it's amazing how little paperwork is involved."

One argument against taking the money is that the housing assistance plan involves taking care of low-income people. The unenlightened translate that into a paranoid fear of non-whites. Before anyone accepts this rather pathetic concern, as some aldermen did three years ago, realize this city's existing housing authority could be challenged if it hampered minorities. The Jim Crow-style rule of forcing people to live here for a year before they can move into Kirkpatrick Homes, for example, would likely be bounced out of court.

Another argument against taking the money is that other communities in the county would be hurt. They've been using money that's rightfully ours to do the same kind of things that need to be done in Granite City. If they are hurt, let them recognize that Granite City has been hurting itself for years by not taking all of its share.

Some communities seemed pleased to get it alone when Mayor Von Dee Cruse offered the option of merging with Granite City. Some of their leaders actually laughed about his sincere, friendly offer. They shouldn't mind now if Granite City takes the same type of parochial approach to government.

Several aldermen and other leaders in this community are studying what it would take to accept all the CDBG money to which Granite City is entitled. We believe they will find, as Perjak found three years earlier, that the economic benefits far exceed the drawbacks of establishing an administrative office and a housing plan.

When the CDBG issue comes up for a vote in September, as expected, we believe Sharon Perjak will again vote correctly — and that this time she'll have the majority's support.

Officerville beyond belief

Officerville isn't a place, it's an idea. Not a very good idea.

It came on the spur of the moment from East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer during a press conference last week held to commemorate the opening of a new East St. Louis jail. A Venice man nearly died in the old one; his mind is now useless — and that helped spur construction of the new jail.

The "Officerville" suggestion had nothing to do with the new jail, but there were media people from St. Louis there, lights, cameras, and he had to say something, anything, and did.

What resulted was apparently Officer's convoluted idea of a forward-thinking unification of five Metro East communities: East St. Louis, Centerville, Alorton, Washington Park and Brooklynn.

He said unifying them would save money for residents of each community by eliminating duplicated services. He said the mayors of the communities in question had discussed the idea with him and they were in agreement in principle.

Officer has a unique memory. None of the mayors agreed with him. Nobody wants East St. Louis' problems, gangs, high and chronic unemployment, poverty. Under Officer's leadership, East St. Louis ranks first in the nation in one category — per capita murders.

East St. Louis' problems will not be overcome by adding more people and a wider geographic area to its jurisdiction. And Officer's off-the-cuff remarks hurt both his city and the Metro East as a whole.

Remember when Officer jumped into the sweepstakes for the GM Saturn plant and the new Cardinal football stadium?

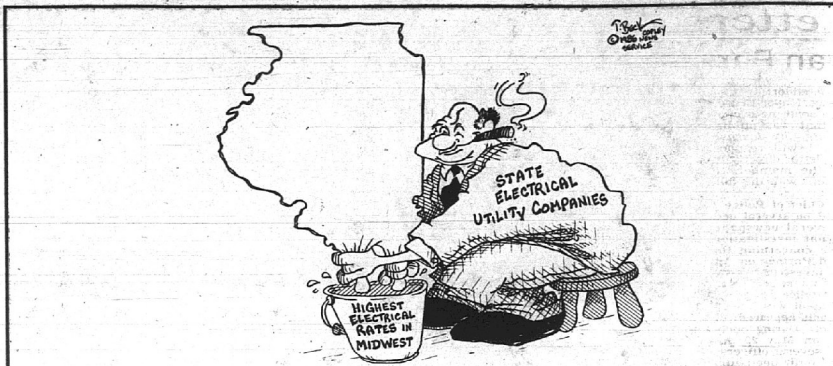

Each time, Officer's high-profile comments made with the authority of a circus palm reader — subtracted from other Metro East agencies' efforts to bring economic growth to the area. Why he's the darling of the St. Louis media is beyond comprehension since he's all baffle and inaction.

In this instance, his ill-advised, cartoon world comments have stretched the Metro East's credibility among bankers and regional planners.

Reasonable people could conclude that suggesting an "Officerville" without first having a solid plan is irresponsible. Officer, as the mayor of this region's largest city, should be aware that his comments are an embarrassment to the Metro East.

Instead, his idea of creating an "Officerville" has made Metro East the subject of jokes.

Officerville? — He doesn't deserve to have a sewer line named after him.

Bi-State not serving riders

To the editor:

We live in Granite City and ride the McKinley Bridge bus to and from work. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the week of July 6, the 3:19 p.m. McKinley Bridge bus did not show up at the corner of 8th and Market.

I called Bi-State customer service on Thursday morning and asked them why this particular bus had not run for three days. First of all, that was a mistake, because the way I was talked to, you thought I had committed a cardinal sin for bothering them. I was also on hold for 15 minutes before they answered the line.

The woman on the line said they had no drivers for that bus. I asked if there weren't any back up drivers, and she said, "I said we had no drivers." I asked her if they would run today (Thursday), and her reply, "I have no idea if they will run or not." I told her this was an inconvenience to the bus riders and she told me, "it wasn't her problem."

Bi-State not only has a poor bus system, but they have a smart-mouthed customer service department. This does not make for good public relations. A lot of us depend on the bus services to get to and from work, and if they aren't do the job and provide the services, then maybe they should get into another line of business. They are really inconsiderate to the public. I guess we either like it or lump it as far as they are concerned.

Appeal to keep nursing home

To the editor:

Your vote concerning the future of the Madison County Shelter Care Home will be crucial to the current residents of the establishment as well as those who would follow them.

Whereas a nursing home is for the aged and ill who cannot take care of themselves, a shelter care facility is exactly what its name implies, it is a place to eat, sleep, freedom to come and go as they please and is intended for those who have no other way of providing these things for themselves.

For these folks the shelter care home is their home. Everyone who lives there is family and for the majority it is their only family. It's really the one thing they can count on. Not only will closing this home and splitting up these people serve no useful purpose but place additional living problems on already overburdened people.

I have been the maintenance man at the home for over three years and am on a first name basis with each and every resident as is every other employee here.

Concern for my own employment is definitely not the issue here but rather my concern for the well being of our residents. While endeavoring to bear in mind that the majority of these people have paid their taxes to various communities in the county, i.e., Edwardsville, Troy, Alton, Granite City, Collinsville, etc., the thought of them uprooted from "their" home and "their" family seems tantamount to callousness or at the very least poor judgment.

It is my belief that facilities such as the Shelter Care Home are a necessity in today's society and I would certainly pray that you, as representatives of the people, weigh all factors when casting your vote.

Utilities make life difficult

To the editor:

When you feel that something is wrong or unjust, don't you think you should speak out and let your voice be heard?

Utility companies are supposed to serve the people instead of their getting so expensive for service that no one can afford to use them anymore. Why should they get away with charging us double whenever they feel like it? Especially at times when we really need our air conditioning the most. What are we supposed to do, die from the heat? Some of us people can't take this heat, especially the elderly and those of us who have respiratory diseases like asthma and bronchitis and have difficulty breathing.

I'm sure all you citizens out there have noticed your electric bills last month. How could you miss it? Every one I talked to just about fell over when they saw how high they were. That's because the electric company doubled your bills last month.

Why are they allowed to do this to people? The elderly who are on fixed incomes and those of us who are out of work with no income at all, and can't afford to use our air conditioners, sit in this heat and suffer and get sick because our utility companies are allowed to keep raising our bills whenever they want to.

Is there ever going to be an end to these rising utilities? Or will the day come when only the rich can afford to pay and use electric and gas? Right now it's the electric company that's doing the raising but wait 'til winter comes — then the gas company will want another raise also.

What about all those nuclear plants that they built that were supposed to make our bills cheaper?

We citizens better start doing something now before it's too late. Public cooperation is needed from all of you people out there who feel that you've had enough. Write to Sen. Paul Simon, your congressman, and Gov. James Thompson and tell them we can't afford these high bills any more before it's too late and none of us can use our utilities at all. They've got us right where they want us, and there will never be an end to it unless we act now.

Reagan I, Reagan II, Reagan III?

President Reagan is limited to no more than two terms but just suppose that were not true.

If he could run again in '88, how would he do?

He'd win.

Our best justification for that projection is what happened this spring in Britain when Maggie Thatcher won her third straight term as prime minister.

The platform she ran on is virtually identical to the platform on which Reagan would run again:

Improved economy.

Moderate inflation.

Declining unemployment.

Reagan critics will suggest that her popularity also related to her victory in the Falklands.

President Reagan could point to a similar victory in Grenada.

Reagan critics will suggest that President Reagan has "stubbed his toe" on the matter of aid to the Contras.

No more than Maggie stubbed her toe in Ireland.

Both are accused of being insensitive to the poor.

What the British electorate considered of transcendent importance were the improving numbers. Other candidates indeed previous prime ministers have given the impression that they were merely presiding over the inevitable decline of Britain. Thatcher, instead, promoted a modern economy. If the steel industry was in decay, she would replace it with high-tech industry.

She reversed Britain's backslide toward socialism with privatization of industry — and with water and electricity next in line.

Her reforms in education, in public housing and in labor unions all reinforced the image of moving "onward and upward."

So if Reagan were to run in '88 his present popularity polls indicate he'd win comfortably.

And while no present candidate comes close to matching Reagan's charisma, this does suggest that whatever candidate seeking the nomination should stick with "Reaganomics." Maggie did.

P.S. There's a bumper sticker in Washington, D.C.: "Reagan in '88 — Nancy Reagan."

Dan Partney answers letter from Cruse

To the editor:

Since Mayor Cruse did not see fit to send me a copy of his letter that was published in the Granite City Journal on July 1, 1987, I will respond with an open letter directly to the mayor and the members of the City Council, with the following comments:

1. Chief of Police Bill Harris, stated on several occasions, and in several newspapers that an internal investigation had been made concerning the arrest of David Partney on April 17, 1987. This investigation was proven to show no misconduct by Granite City Police Officers. After that statement was made, the following facts appeared:

Fact: During open testimony, both on May 29 and June 17, 1987, several officers stated that they had been drinking for approximately 12 hours (from 5:30 p.m. until 4 a.m.). These officers admitted frequented three different taverns, and were driving an unmarked Granite City police car on April 17, 1987.

Fact: During open testimony, police officers requested a cocktail waitress to deliver a drink to Partney at the Granite City Police Department. This happened approximately two hours prior to his arrest for D.U.I.

Fact: During open testimony, one Granite City police officer admitted to approaching and arguing with David Partney three times that night. The oath this officer stated that his own behavior constituted provocation.

Fact: Transcript of the probable cause hearing and the actual trial concerning the D.U.I. arrest of David Partney clearly state that officers involved committed perjury.

Fact: After conducting a hearing on the D.U.I. arrest of David Partney, Chief Associate Circuit Judge Edward Ferguson wrote his ruling on June 1, 1987. "That it is important to realize that such allegations of police misconduct should not be taken lightly. While police are not governed by the same ethics as judges, this whole episode has the appearance of impropriety. Perhaps not impropriety to bag prosecution, but certainly enough for internal scrutiny and civil remedy."

2. Excessive drinking by police officers. Fact: During open testimony, several officers of the Granite City Police Department were admitted drinking for approximately 12 hours, at one time, while also driving an unmarked Granite City police car on April 17, 1987.

Fact: On June 18, 1987, a Granite City police officer was seen drinking with a fellow policeman and an attorney for several hours in a local establishment. This officer later went home and changed into his uniform, so that he could begin his shift at the Granite City Police Department on that same date.

Fact: It is also common knowledge that a police officer keeps beer in the police building and openly drinks at the police station. All of this is in violation of our local city ordinances.

Fact: On the night of a scheduled mitters check at a bar, a police officer was drinking beer at the police station. He then went to the bar and was drinking there prior to the mitters check. Police officers working that night said that the officer was intoxicated at the time of the arrests.

3. Sexual misconduct and sexual harassment by a Granite City Police Officer. Fact: One female employee of the Granite City Police Department was fondled while on duty Dec. 19, 1986. Nothing has been done about this.

Fact: Concerns involving sexual misconduct by one individual police officer have been noted by five different female employees.

4. Dealing in drugs by Granite City Police Officers. Fact: On June 23, 1987, Chief of Police Bill Harris named four Granite City police officers who were suspected of illegal drug activities. They were: Officer City Attorney Mark Goldenburg and Alderwoman Sharon Perjak.

5. Opportunistic Political Motivation:

Fact: While talking to a Granite City police officer, a city official said that "Dan Partney is Von Dee's main contender for the next election and that they want to be able to get Dan out of the election so that he would not be able to run."

Fact: The same official told another Granite City police officer, "That he only wanted to get Dan Partney."

Fact: A police officer told another Granite City police officer that they "wanted to burn Dan Partney."

Fact: A member of the mayor's administration made promises to a Granite City police officer if this Granite City police officer would do what they wanted him to do in order to discredit Dan Partney.

These are just a few of the things that the D.C.I. would find, if they conducted an investigation concerning the Granite City Police Department. I believe many of the above facts have been known by the mayor for some time. When he talks of breaching the public trust, he should first look into a mirror.

Also, when the mayor states any morale problem in the Police Department comes not from a failure within the department, he should be better informed, since Granite City Police Local 1347 went on record by a unanimous vote recently concerning this very subject.

In closing, I would like to add that we have many fine police officers working for Granite City. My allegations are in no way directed at every officer in our Police Department. At this time, I would strongly urge the Granite City Council to go on record that the mayor should act immediately upon these allegations, which are supported by facts, for the D.C.I. to investigate.

Editor's note: Portions of the letter were changed, with permission, because individuals are named. It is against our policy to print libel.

Elderly need reasonable amount of care

To the editor:

If you had no relatives or any money. If you were alone, dependent and still had you own mind in many ways, where would you go? Time's up — the decision has already been made for you, like it or not.

Using the age of the existing facilities and the maintenance problems as prime reasons for a new facility, not to mention that maybe they were genuinely concerned about the well being of those who can not provide these things for themselves, the Madison County Board proposed a tax increase for a $6 million facility to house both the Nursing Home and Shelter Care residents that had an ice cream shop and other extravagances. Then going from one extreme to another, let's phase out the Shelter Care (they decided).

What changed? The needs did not change. Have privately owned, money-making homes put enough pressure on the elected officials? Has all of the board decided that this is the last group of needy older adults that the county will have to worry about? Maybe it's because information about the need and the outrageous proposal was only distributed by the owners of private homes who had the money to buy the support they needed.

Many of the residents in our Shelter Care home paid their dues throughout their lives just like you are doing now. Can we look them straight in the face and say "so what"? Can they and those to follow, possibly, someone who put you as board members in the positions you now hold, really mean that little to you? Have you no faith that actions on this earth will follow you to eternity? If that's the case I pray for you. If it's not, I ask that you as the deciding committee continue your support and propose a reasonable building on the next tax vote and be confident that we as the voters will accept an acceptable idea in the meantime don't fail these people, they can't fight back.

County isn't in good shape for elderly

To the editor:

I find it unbelievable that the people of Madison County would support the County Board members in saying the "county budget is in good shape" when in the very same article they are talking about the bad financial shape of the nursing home and phasing out the shelter care home. Yet in the article below that one they have $700 per person to send 13 board members to a convention.

The board tried to pass a tax increase to build a new nursing home and shelter care, with an ice cream shop and a lot of unnecessary things amounting to $6 million. I can understand why it did not pass.

Yes, the county is in "good shape" for everyone but the elderly and these are the people who helped put it there. The animal control department is over budget but they don't talk about closing it. Who is more important?

All these people want is a safe and comfortable place they can call home and I am sure they can build that for a lot less than $6 million.

I hope the County Board members stay financially well off because if their health fails then and they go to a private nursing home they will need a lot of money and it will be even worse when the county homes are no longer around.

Privacy deprived by bosses who bug worker's telephones

Most Americans are confident their telephone calls are private and they are legally protected against eavesdropping.

So you might be surprised to learn that employers listen to an estimated 400 million phone calls every year. Secret monitoring of workers and customers has spread from telephone companies to other industries and is increasingly common.

Who is being "bugged"? Telephone operators, reservation clerks, government workers, customer service representatives — just about anyone who works with telephones or computers and their customers is fair game.

Privacy is essential to our dignity. Justice Louis Brandeis called it the right to be left alone — a right cherished by all Americans.

Unfortunately, a loophole in the Wiretap Act of 1968 allows this secret monitoring of phone calls.

A bill I have introduced would require an audible "beep" tone to let all telephone users know whether their conversations are being monitored. Companies could still check to determine service quality but secret surveillance would have to stop.

Congressman Don Edwards of California has introduced a similar House bill.

Some telephone company managers claim they need to listen to ensure quality, efficient service. But Morton Bahar, president of the Communications Workers of America, said the opposite is true.

Workers who feel they are not trusted don't perform their jobs as well. Bahar cites at least two cases where when the "bugging" stopped, productivity increased.

Charles Hecksher, a professor at the Harvard Business School, said the best way to get top performance from workers is to tell them what needs to be done, and then get out of their way and let them do it.

There are basic invasions of privacy that our system of government was designed to prevent. You cannot get a search warrant to invade someone's house just because you want to go in and look around. You should not be able to invade someone's phone conversation without a legitimate reason. My bill doesn't stop a court form issuing wiretap warrants for legitimate law enforcement activities. But we should not be able to invade phone conversations easily. We should protect the American people from loss of their basic liberties.

P.S.
By Paul Simon
U.S. Senator

Privacy is one of the greatest rights in our free society. It is time to reverse an erosion of this right.

Year of strike hits TV

By William Scott Simon
Journal correspondent

The 1987 broadcast year should go down in history as the year of strikes and budget-slashing. The majority of the strikes have hit national networks and production companies. But St. Louis jumped last week when broadcast engineers and technicians began a strike against KPLR Channel 11.

The job on July 12. Engineers had been working without a contract since Dec. 31, 1986, while negotiations continued between the station and the union.

Complaints by the strikers were printed on a flyer distributed outside the KPLR studios and offices by picketers. The strikers cited a weekly pay cut of $62.50, three more hours of work for the smaller paycheck and a company offer for a three-year contract with no raises, as their main disputes.

Steven Meyers, the union's business manager, said the station wants to increase weekly work hours from 35 to 37½, overtime for after 40 hours instead of 35 and cuts in sick days, vacation time, and personal days off.

"They want us to take a pay cut, yet the station is a profitable business," Meyers said. "It's an insult to the worker's loyalty to the station and dedication to their profession."

A Channel 11 spokesman said the contract proposal was a fair one for both sides.

Engineering and technical duties will be handled by station department managers and workers hired for the strike openings as long as the strike lasts.

The IDEW local was asking sympathizers to turn off Channel 11 as long as the strike continues a position that defies logic.

Fewer viewers cause lower ratings, cheaper advertising rates and a loss in revenue. Such an action will hurt the union's bargaining position with the station.

A Channel 11 strike was averted Tuesday when members of the Directors Guild of America settled disputes with NBC-TV, Warner Brothers, and Columbia Pictures. CBS and ABC were prepared to lock out its directors in support of NBC's efforts.

Two weeks ago, approximately 2,800 members of the National Association of Broadcast Electronic Technicians went on strike against NBC-TV.

Earlier this year, the Writers Guild walked off the job at CBS and ABC, a strike that lasted five weeks.

Broadcasting and television production executives say the tough line is an effort to reduce costs and increase profit margins.

It may be working. In the past year, CBS laid-off about 1,000 workers to save money in response to Ted Turner's unsuccessful takeover attempt of the network by the Cable News Network.

Fighting the acquisition cost CBS $970 million. Recently, CBS revealed it had 10 times more cash reserves than it had a year ago, and on Monday, announced it was selling its magazine division for $600 million.

Cost-cutting decisions made at CBS have had an effect locally. KMOX Radio was forced to lay-off some of its news department and eliminated other positions by attrition. KMOX also was affected by the writers' strike, when it sent staffers Joan Beukman and Margie Manning to a CBS-owned radio station in Chicago as replacements.

Ministry to Handicapped Sunday at 1st Assembly

Christian recording artists Charlie and Debbie Chivers of Waupaca, Wis., will be ministering in word and song at 6:30 p.m., July 19, at First Assembly of God Church, 24th Street and Grand Avenue.

1974 marked the beginning of ministry for the Chivers, and since 1982, they have broadened their outreach by founding "Special Touch Ministry to the Handicapped," a ministry that reaches out to the needs of a vast segment of our society long ignored — America's handicapped millions.

Through "Special Touch" they have established, in several states, summer camping programs and winter retreats for both the mentally and physically handicapped, and awareness training seminars for the local church, the host pastor said.

"Special Touch" was begun to evangelize the handicapped, lead the church into a revitalized awareness of the spiritual, mental and physical needs of these people, and to incorporate them into consistent outreach on local and national levels, he said.

Their ultimate goal is to open Special Touch camps in each state.

Everyone is invited, the Rev. Dale Edwards said.

Living Every Day

by Bob Thomas, President,
Thomas Mortuaries
Tradition — Dignity — Support

COPING WITH OVERWHELMING STRESS

Most of us, at one time or another, will be asked to cope with stress that may seem overwhelming. This stress may come from illness, crushing financial reverses, the anguish of family discord or bereavement from the death of a loved one.

While each individual deals with stress in his or her own way, psychological studies conducted with the Iranian hostages and the Vietnam prisoners of war indicate four basic principles were used by these people who were under tremendous stress to cope with that stress. These four principles can be used by everyone not only to cope with stress, but often grow stronger because of the ordeal.

Stay in contact with others. Even the strongest among us need the support of others during stressful times. Communication and support from others are vital in times of crisis. Unfortunately many people turn in the opposite direction when confronting a stressful situation. A close friend, relative, doctor or clergyman or psychiatric professional can provide the needed anchor when you find yourself adrift in stress.

Help others in trouble. Self pity never increases anyone's psychological endurance. Compassion for others, shedding the martyr role and turning your attention outward has a remarkable healing effect. In the face of your own crisis, it is often easy to forget the needs of those around us. The experiences of captives demonstrate that acts of compassion in the face of crisis can help us all to cope with our personal tragedies.

Retain some control over your daily life. For many former captives the worst aspect of their ordeal was the sudden realization that they were under the control of their enemies. When we become captives of our personal crisis, we need to allow them to control our life. However life crises can be conquered if we avoid becoming passive victims of fate, paralyzed by an overwhelming sense of weakness and vulnerability. We need to devise tangible reminders of our ability to direct our own fortunes.

Have confidence in your inner strength. Because we are rarely asked to reach the limits of our psychological endurance, we have no gauge to tell us how strong we actually are. The survivors of captivity offer living proof of the incredible coping potential that lies buried within each of us. To often we face stress convinced that we will be weakened, or even destroyed, by them. Rarely do we suspect the extend of our own capacity to cope with anything life can throw at us.

BOB THOMAS
President

Thomas Mortuaries Ltd., through its Living Every Day program, is providing help that is available to every member of our community to cope with the crisis that occurs when a loved one is dying or has died. For more information call Thomas Mortuaries at 876-4321.

Phillips, Archambault big winners at Tri-City

By Joe Senter
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — Larry Phillips of Springfield, Mo., and Gary Archambault of Earth City, Mo., were the big money winners on Saturday at Tri-City Speedway.

Phillips made his long two pay off to the tune of $3,000 by winning the U.M.P. late model stock feature event. He was driving an independent state sponsored Trans Am with a Buell chassis #75. Phillips started the event in the second row alongside of track champion Mike Wallace. It only took him until the first turn to take the lead.

Phillips and Bill Meyer for a little old-fashioned hub-rubbing with Meyer getting the most damage to his #21 car. He had to drop out for most of the race. Phillips led the full 50 laps, surviving several yellow flags. Kevin Gundaker came from the 10th starting spot to take second place. Ray Godsey was third, followed by John Prior, Rich Standridge, Ron Fisher, Ed Baumaire, Bert Cheatham, Bill Shaw and Bobby Dietz.

Wallace fell out on the 31st lap with a burned piston. Twenty-three cars entered.

Godsey took the first heat race followed by Wallace. Meyer took the second heat followed by Phillips. Archambault was the $1,000 50-lap feature event winner for the sportsman's cars. He started on the front row pole position, alongside of Mike Seets and out-gunned the rest of the field with his Nullynski-built house car #N1. Archambault fought off Jake Seets for the full race. Seets took second followed by Rick Bauer, David Walker, Bob Stanton and Don Carter.

Archambault, Mike Seets and Mike Simpson took the heat races.

Regular racing will resume Saturday with the modifieds and street stock cars. The gates open at 6 p.m.

Lively ball? Not for All-Stars

Sports of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

at the constant questions about the ball.

"If I thought my company was doing anything at all to jinx up the ball, I would resign my position right now," he said.

I believed him. His idea for the wealth of home runs was the decline of pitching skills in the game to day, I agree.

Tuesday night's All-Star Game might have proven that point. When all of the best pitchers in the league gathered together for one game, they shut down the game's greatest hitters for 12 innings before the National League broke through for two runs and a 2-0 victory on Tim Lincecum's 13th-inning triple.

Very ironic. In "The Year of the Home Run," baseball had its lowest-scoring All-Star Game since a 1-0 game at the Astrodome in 1968 — "The Year of the Pitcher."

pitches to allow Lou Brock to steal 118 bases.

His firm, which makes the baseballs used in the majors, is getting a bad rap in the controversy about the lively ball.

"It's the same ball we've sold these past many years to the National and American leagues," he said.

He told of many tests the ball has to go through before it is sold. One could tell he was beginning to get slightly annoyed
